The product of America's greatest earthquake, the Sunken Lands are home to unique lowland swamps and agricultural open spaces. More than a bicycle ride, the Tour duh Sunken Lands is a cultural trip through the times that made northeast Arkansas. The 52-mile loop includes admission to regional and international attractions like the Southern Tenant Farmers Museum, the Historic Dyess Colony and the Johnny Cash Boyhood Home, the Painted House used in the movie adaptation of the John Grisham novel, and the Rivervale Tunnel, the only place where two rivers meet but do not touch.

Early registration for the Sixth Annual Tour duh Sunken Lands may be mailed to: Southern Tenant Farmers Museum, P.O. Box 195, Tyronza, AR 72385

Make checks payable to: Sunken Lands Regional Chamber • One entry per form. Please PRINT legibly.

Early registration fee (prior to Oct. 18; guarantees t-shirt size selection): $25 • Regular registration (from Oct. 18 to event day): $30
